MEI & Kidney Academy Partner to Educate Patients & Professionals

Madison, Wisconsin — The non-profit [Medical Education Institute \(MEI\)](http://Medical Education Institute (MEI)) is honored to announce a cooperative partnership with Kidney Academy. The relationship serves to promote and share educational content for kidney professionals and the patients they serve.

Kidney Academy, which recently celebrated its one-year anniversary, is a non-profit dedicated to serving the global dialysis access community by providing online training, certification, and collaboration. MEI is grateful to have a presence in their community, where members can access MEI educational resources for patients.

An example of the two organizations working together, Home Dialysis Central's KidneyViews blog recently featured a post by Kidney Academy founder, Dr. Ingemar Davidson.

Dori Schatell, MEI Executive Director said partnership for the two organizations made sense because of a shared focus on education. "We are impressed with Kidney Academy's high-quality education for professionals, as well as their very active online community," said Schatell.

Therese Wykoff, Kidney Academy Executive Director said, "We are excited about this collaboration to connect the Kidney Academy clinical audience to the many resources available through MEI."
